...and close to 200 "friends of Dori" gathered at the Library to surprise and honor a very special part of our community and State of Delaware. Monty Gebhart mastered the evening, reading attendees comments and serenading her. Proclamations from the Trustees, City of New Castle were a highlight of the evening. Dori, a music teacher worked decades with her husband Bob, in whose Senate seat she has served since 1997, first won in a special election after his death. We are all better today being touched by Dori.

FUNERAL POTATOES

might scare you a bit, but you have nothing to worry about. This is a cheesy potato casserole recipe that gets its name from the place where it is often served—funerals. It is also a great dish to have at Easter and can be made with or without a crunchy topping.

So anyway... you'll need a bag of shredded hash brown potatoes from the freezer section (thawed), a can of cream of chicken soup (or cream of mushroom if you're going vegetarian), shredded sharp cheddar cheese, sour cream, an onion, a few cloves of garlic, kosher salt, freshly ground black pepper, and a little butter.

Get fixn'

- 1 small-medium onion, diced
- 2-3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1-2 Tbsp. butter
- 1 28-oz. bag shredded hash brown potatoes, thawed
- 2 c. sour cream
- 1 10-oz. can cream of chicken (or mushroom) soup
- 2 1/4 c. shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- 3/4 tsp. kosher salt
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- OPTIONAL: Crushed cornflakes, seasoned bread crumbs, crushed potato chips, or crushed Ritz or saltine crackers

Preheat oven to 350°. In a large skillet, melt the butter over medium heat. Add the onion and garlic and sauté until the onion is translucent and the garlic is fragrant. Remove from heat. Add the thawed hash browns, sour cream, cream of chicken soup, cheese, salt, and pepper and combine well. Add additional salt and pepper if necessary.

Spread the mixture into a 9x13" (or similar) dish and bake for 50-60 minutes or until the casserole is hot in the center and the cheese is bubbly throughout. Serve as a main dish with a salad and fruit or alongside roasted ham, turkey, chicken, or beef. Makes 6-8 main dish or 10-12 side dish servings.

"When in doubt, throw it out."

While that sounds like a decidedly unscientific way to approach your groceries, it may be better than relying on "sell-by," "use-by," and other dates stamped on food.

No food stays fresh forever. No, not even Twinkies. (Honey comes close, though.)

Knowing the expiration date is important to avoid getting sick and wasting money. But figuring out how long food actually lasts can be confusing: Labels use various phrasings to describe shelf life, like "sell by," "use by," and "best by." Others seem to have only a date, with no explanation what it means.

Use-by or best-by dates

These dates are basically quality guarantees by the manufacturer: The proper flavor and quality should last until at least this date when properly stored. Often these products are fine to eat past the listed date – but they might not taste great. The USDA says, "'Use-by' dates usually refer to best quality and are not safety dates. But even if the date expires during home storage, a product should be safe, wholesome and of good quality if handled properly and kept at 40 °F or below." Save money by not throwing out food that's still safe if not quite as savory.

Expiration dates

While the federal government doesn't require these, some states do on certain products – especially dairy, and often meat. This is one area where you don't want to cut corners. If the label explicitly mentions expiration, listen to it – with one exception from EggSafety.org: "Cartons may carry an expiration date (EXP) beyond which the eggs should not be sold, but are still safe to eat." The USDA says you have 3 to 5 weeks from purchase. That's how the dates work. But the USDA also has a convenient list of storage times...

Cobblestones

is growing!

Every Sunday morning, 480 plus "Cobbles" receive their weekly dose of New Castle's comings and goings and other good and interesting stuff! Cobblestones is my "fun" project, a service to the community. There is no charge to community organizations for their listings.

Space for commercial/business ads require a donation of $50 to cover time and materials. That covers four random insertions.

Ads should be a moderate size. A jpg or PDF works the best. Let me know early in the week an approx. size with a final copy Thursday. If it's just a listing for "events", please send me copy as soon as possible.

Personally, I would like to thank everyone for your interest and participation in the growing Cobblestones family.

Anything I can do to help, please let me know.

Tell them you saw it in the Cobblestones Teditor

Let's Wine about What Ales You

Well over 100 people gathered last Saturday to enjoy good company, at the third annual fundraiser for The Historic New Castle Alliance, which is affiliated with The Main Street Program. Guests enjoyed great chocolates and cheeses while tasting some new and special wines and local ale offerings. The William Penn Culinary Arts Program (catering as "Penn Bistro") provided the chocolates.

Vendors were Auburn Road Vineyards (NJ), DOPS and Southern Distributors, 16-Mile, Argilla and Iron Hill (Newark), Carol Regan for the background vocals and music, and the First Delaware Militia (Revolutionary War) as our time travelers. Many thanks to all those who helped set up, cut and plate the cheese and clean up as many hands make light work!!!

*Mark your calendar for January 11, 2014, 5:30

- 7:30 p.m. Location TBD, but friend us on FB or on our website, www.historicnewcastle.org, which is being "renovated" shortly to be more visually interesting and dynamic!
