

Last week Cobble Jim posted this artistic snowy Delaware Street scene. It prompted me to see what it would look like if the utilities were underground. After sharing the before and after, the comments were most favorable. Underground utilities has been a dream of many that have called New Castle home. We've hosted movie productions with artificial snow, street gas lamps and even cobblestones. Perhaps the City and Trustees should invest in the Power Ball now and then?

WINTER WEDNESDAYS Lecture Series

New Castle Revisited

February 10 - 7pm

Join us this Wednesday as local author Mike Connolly will present a photo-history of New Castle as part of the New Castle Historical Society's Wintery Wednesdays lecture series at the Arsenal, 30 Market Street in Old New Castle. The lecture is free to current NCHS members / $3 for general public.

Mike's presentation will be based on his recent book New Castle Revisited, part of the popular Images of America series by Arcadia Publishing. Both the book and presentation boast a wealth of historic photos of New Castle drawn from the rich archival collection of the New Castle Historical Society. Mike will discuss the history of New Castle's waterfront, both lost and extant buildings, local industry and small businesses of the past using photos dating back as far as the 1870s.

Copies of New Castle Revisited will be for sale by the author after the presentation, and Mike will be available to sign your copy personally

aussie meat pie

This is The Australian Traditional Meat pie! usually eaten for lunch for just watching the Aussie rules footy. You can make 2 big meat pie or many little ones from this recipe!

on your counter

3 lbs beef chuck, diced 1/2-inch cubes * 1/2 c. flour
 3 tbsps vegetable oil * 2 cloves garlic, chopped * 1 onion, diced * 1 tbsp freshly ground black pepper * 1 tbsp ground coriander * 1 tbsp celery seed * 1/4 c. Worcestershire sauce
 1/4 c. soy sauce * 4 c. beef or chicken stock * 4 sheets puff pastry * 1 egg, beaten, to glaze crust * Black pepper

One Aussie chef added 1 tbsp Vegemite. (a dark brown Australian food paste made from leftover brewers' yeast extract with various vegetable and spice additives. Most markets and Amazon).

here's how...

Preheat oven to 400°

Dredge beef in flour and sear in oil in a hot pan. Add the garlic and onion and sauté for 4 more minutes. Add the spices, Worcestershire and soy sauce and cook until the liquid is almost dissolved. Add the stock and cook until the meat is coated in thick gravy. Transfer to a container and cool.

Roll 2 sheets of pastry to 1/2-inch thickness. Line 8-inch tart molds with the rolled pastry. Line the pastry with tin foil and pre-bake for about 8 minutes. Let cool.

Roll out the remaining pastry sheets and cut lids for the pies. Fill baked shells with the meat mixture and cover with the cut pastry lids. Attach lids with egg wash. Brush the tops with the remaining egg wash and sprinkle with black pepper.

Bake for 8 minutes or until golden brown.

THE DAY THE MUSIC DIED

While this 57th anniversary was last week this background story merits mention

In 1971, singer-songwriter Don McLean released "American Pie," a song that forever immortalized the 1959 plane accident as "the day the music died." Although McLean has been notoriously tight-lipped about the precise meaning of the song's lyrics, he did acknowledge that he originally learned about the accident as he folded newspapers for his paper route on the morning of February 4, 1959. This is reflected in the song's lines "February made me shiver/With every paper I'd deliver."

A less well-known musical tribute to Holly, Richardson, and Valens was recorded by fellow performer Eddie Cochran not long after their deaths.

However, that song, "Three Stars," was released posthumously after Cochran's death in 1960 and failed to achieve the popularity later enjoyed by McLean's ballad.
