Sheriff's House update

Since the National Monument designation in 2013 placed Delaware in the National Park Service (now a National Park) the number of sites has grown from two to seven. The rehabilitation and use plan for the Sheriff's House to rehabilitate the structure to support those uses has been in the works for some time. The second round of proposals were presented last Wednesday evening to a sparse number of citizens who came to learn the latest updates and what the next steps were. One resident expressed concerns that the Beaver Valley site was receiving the bulk of attention and budget while signage in our area still refers us a National Monument and not the National Park designation. Possible uses for the building would include, but are not limited to: • Park orientation, interpretation, and education (including exhibits) • NPS and/or partner administrative space • Partnership opportunities • Commercial office space • Community gatherings.

The plan is available for public review. You may submit comments click HERE. Then click on the "Open for Comment" link on the left side of this page, select the document title, then click "Comment Now."

You may mail your written comments to:

Superintendent Ethan McKinley, First State National Historical Park

NCLL Families and Friends! We have some wonderful news to share. Since sharing our gofundme campaign and NBC10 sharing our story regarding the incorrect billing of our electric account we have received an overwhelming amount of support from the community. We received donations from as far away as Tennessee! We've received donations from our NCLL families, family of past NCLL board members, local politicians, our annual MC/DJ for opening day, and members of the community who have no ties to our organization at all. With that said we have officially reached our goal!!!! We can't express our excitement enough! Every single donation no matter the size has helped our league continue to do what we are here to do and that is provide a safe place for our community's children to play baseball or softball. You can view our gofundme page to see some of our contributors if you would like to personally thank them. In addition we would like to publicly thank 2 of our donors. These donors combined donated more than half of the monies raised. They wanted to help their community and we ask that you support them also. Thank you Dick's Sporting Goods and Two Stones Pub for your generous donations. Our league is honored by their support and everyone else in our community.

So thank you all!

Remember the days when the lunch lady was a nemesis. There were certain days when she was a friend. On the days when sloppy Joes were involved, she was a hero.

Some say the sloppy Joe was invented in the 1930s in Iowa. Some call them Manwiches or Yum Yums or Slushburgers, depending on where you are. But universally, the sloppy Joe is a reason for celebration, whether it's served in a chaotic cafeteria or at a more peaceful dinner table, at a diner or out of a can at home.

gonna need

1 tbsp olive oil - 1 lb. ground beef (20% fat) - ½ medium onion, chopped - ½ green bell pepper, chopped - 2 garlic cloves, grated - Kosher salt, freshly ground pepper - 1 tbsp chili powder - 1 tbsp sweet paprika - 1 tsp onion powder - ¼ tsp red pepper flakes - 1 cup low-sodium chicken stock - 1 cup tomato purée - ¼ cup ketchup - 1 tbsp plus 1 tsp Worcestershire sauce - 1 tsp Dijon mustard - 1 tsp (dark) molasses
4 hamburger rolls, buttered, toasted Kettle chips and pickle spears

heres how

Heat oil in a large skillet over high. Cook beef, breaking up with a spoon, until browned on all sides but not completely cooked through, 6–8 minutes. Transfer to a medium bowl with a slotted spoon, leaving as much fat in pan as possible.

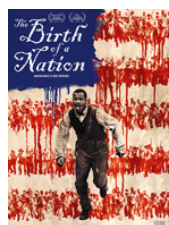

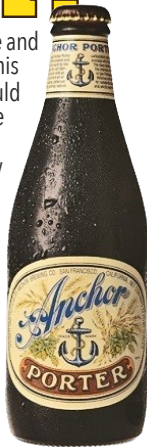

Reduce heat to medium and cook onion, bell pepper, and garlic, stirring, until tender but not browned, 6–8 minutes; season with salt and black pepper. Add chili powder, paprika, onion powder, and red pepper and cook, stirring, until fragrant, about 1 minute. Add stock, tomato purée, ketchup, Worcestershire, mustard, molasses, and beef along with any accumulated juices to pan. Bring to a simmer and cook, stirring and scraping up any brown bits, until mixture is thick and saucy (like a ragù or Bolognese), 12–15 minutes; season with salt and pepper.

Meat mixture can be made 3 days ahead. Cover and chill. Reheat before assembling.

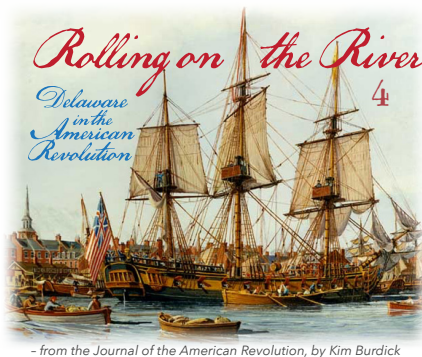

A NEW INDUSTRY IS BORN

Maytag BEER?

Fritz Maytag was the great-grandson of a home appliances magnate and the son of an Iowa dairy farmer. Already set for life as he approached his thirties, the Stanford grad began looking for an industry where he could make his own mark. Anchor Steam was his favorite beer, and when he heard its 69-year-old brewery was facing closure, he snatched a 51% stake in it for a few thousand bucks. Thinking he would just financially advise them, he was shocked when creditors quickly started approaching him with IOUs. He would need to figure out a way to sell more beer. Maytag immediately decided to focus his attention on raising his beer's quality. It was 1965, and beer in this country mostly meant so-called "fizzy, yellow" macro-beers. Thus, he began to build an impressive portfolio of diverse styles that didn't really exist in America just yet, like Anchor Porter (1972), Christmas Ale (1975), and Liberty Ale (1975), generally labeled the country's first modern IPA. So far ahead of his time, it took Maytag nearly a decade to turn a profit. By then, the country was finally warming up to "flavorful" beers, and many imitators were soon to follow.

In March, George Washington at Valley Forge received good news from Captain John Barry: Port Penn, March 9, 1778

Dear General

Tis with the Greatest Satisfaction Imaginable I inform You of Capturing Two Ships & a Schooner of the Enemy. The two ships were Transports from Rhode Island Loaded with forage One Mounting Six Four Pounders with fourteen hands

Each the Schooner is in the Engineering Department Mounting Eight Double fortified four Pounders & twelve four Pound howitz Properly fitted in Every Particular & Manned with thirty-three men...the schooner is unloaded but have not as Yet the Manifest of the Cargo But are a Number of Engineering Tools on Board.

... By the Bearer Mr John Chilton have Sent You a Cheese Together with a Jar of Pickled Oysters which Crave Your Acceptance. Should have Remitted the Particulars Together with the Letters & Dispatch for General De hester Before But a fleet of the Enemys Small Vessels appearing in Sight Obligated me to Burn One of the Ships & am afraid the Other will share the same fate after Discharging her But am Determined to hold the Schooner at all Events. Inclosed You have the Articles of the Schooners Capitulation as we Sent a flag on Board her. After Boarding the two Ships & am Sir with Due Respect Your Excellncies Most Obedient Humbl. Servt

John Barry^[14]

The following day, Smallwood wrote to George Washington from Wilmington:

Our People were attacked at 20Clk off Pt Pen by a 20 Gun Ship & an Armed Sloop which it was supposed were convoying the Remainder of the Forage Fleet—I have received Intelligence that many of the Enemy are out of Philada above their Lines towards German Town but the Intelligence is not to be depended on. W.S.

N.B. one of the Lieutenants gives an Account of 100 Transports being ordered 'round to Delaware abt the middle of this Month &c. ^[15]

That spring, Captain Snape Hamond ordered the Pearl, stationed between Chester and Reedy Point, to destroy all rebel boats found in Delaware's creeks. George Read reported that "a considerable body of the Enemy, supposed to be 700, landed this morning about Liston's Highlands and were on the march up the Thoroughfare Neck." The British ship Camilla proceeded to patrol between Reedy Island and Bombay Hook, removing the rebel boat Fame out of a creek just above Reedy Point. The commander of Delaware's continental regiment, Charles Pope, wrote to Caesar Rodney from Duck Creek that "30—or 40 marines landed & took off some cattle etc., & returned ... at eight o'clock this morning. The fleet consisting of about 35 sail weighed and stood Down the Bay."^[16] From Lewes, it was reported that a "fleet of 40 Sail" was seen going up the Bay and that "English burn the 2 last vessels ashore, ye woods burn. John Whiltbanck, Loyalist, Went with Negroes to ye English."^[17]

Because New Castle was dangerously close to the river, the Delaware Assembly once again met in Dover. Caesar Rodney was elected President of Delaware. In the spring of 1778, Caesar Rodney wrote: We are constantly alarmed in this place by the enemy and refugees. And seldom has a day passed but some man in this and the neighbouring counties is taken off by the villains. So, that men near the Bay who I know to be hearty in the Cause, dare neither act nor speak lest they should be taken away and their houses plundered.^[18]

On May 4, a delegation from the British government that had been sent to attempt reconciliation was sailing past New Castle, where they waited for an armed sloop to take them to Philadelphia. One noted, "as we passed ... [we] were insulted by a party of riflemen who fired several shots at us, which, though striking at too great a distance to occasion the least alarm, yet manifested the malevolence as well as rashness of their intentions."^[19]

Hi there! My name's Buster. I'm an 8 year old shepherd mix who came to the shelter after being found tied up outside with a note - can you believe that? Who could ever leave THIS face? I've been very shy and scared since then because I can't seem to figure out what I did wrong, so I'm going to need someone that's willing to be patient with me and wants to show me what true love really is. I had a kennel mate who I grew very fond of, so I would really love to be with another dog! I'm housebroken and walk well on a leash. I hope you'll come in and meet me soon and show me what it's like to have a real family!

CELEBRATE DELAWARE
SEPARATION DAY ★ JUNE 9th & 10th

The new annual passes are $35 for residents and $18 for residents age 62 and older. These, along with surf tags and military passes available HERE or the public can purchase them from state park offices, DNREC's Dover licensing desk in the Richardson & Robbins Building at 89 Kings Highway, or from authorized agents. Delaware's state parks are primarily self-funded; 65 percent of state park revenue used to operate and maintain the parks is generated by park users. Annual passes not only are important to sustain state parks, they are a convenient way to access the parks for the entire fee season.
