SUPERMARKETS

There's been a lot of discussion recently about the vacant Pathmark store.

The Trustees of the Common have unjustly been blamed for depriving local households of a venue for grocery shopping. The Trustees do not own or rent the buildings or control the tenants, just the land. The property is leased to 326 Associates. I have been told that 326 Associates have been working to find a tenant in a tough supermarket business. Much - mentioned Acme Markets did not attempt to rent the location.

Many mourn the loss of Thriftway in PennMart shopping center and say Sav-A-Lot falls short. A good store, Super G, at the former Super Fresh fills the niche. Area residents look for Lindl, Aldi or an Acme to call the site home. Others dream of Trader Joes, Harris Teeter or a new ShopRite!

Recently I have been using ShopRite home delivery and have been very pleased.

Help my class learn about Delaware

Dear people of the great state of Delaware

Hello! I am a fourth-grade student in North Carolina.

In fourth grade, we research a state for our State Fair, and I have chosen your state! I am very excited to learn more about the great state of Delaware as I work on my report.

While we will research most of the information ourselves, we would also like to get firsthand knowledge from people who live in the state. This is why I am writing to you.

I was hoping you would be willing to send me some small items to help me learn more about the best things in your state. It could be things like postcards, maps, pictures, general information, this newspaper article, or any other items that you think would be useful.

You can mail items to this address — Mrs. Dodd's Class, Charlotte Latin School, 9502 Providence Road, Charlotte, NC 28277 — by April 30 for our State Fair on May 18.

I really appreciate your help and will do my very best to send a thank you note to each and every person who takes the time and makes the effort to help me with this project. Thank you in advance for your consideration!

Sincerely,
—Catherine Alex, Charlotte, North Carolina

today in history Titanic sank in the North Atlantic after hitting an iceberg 1912

As served in the first-class dining saloon of the R.M.S. Titanic

Waldorf Pudding

On the evening of April 14, 1912 a number of first-class passengers on the Titanic revelled in a privately basted feast in the first-class à la carte restaurant. At the same time in the first-class dining saloon other first-class passengers - some who had paid the equivalent of $124,000 in today's dollars for the ocean voyage - settled in for a sumptuous, if over-filling, ten-course extravaganza...here's the final dessert.

Gonna need

½ cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 2 tsps baking powder, 3 tbsps melted butter, ½ tsp salt, 1½ cups diced unpeeled apples, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 tsp vanilla, 1 cup english walnut meat, ½ cup steamed raisins

For the Sauce

1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, 2 egg yolks, beaten, 2 cups whipped cream, ½ tsp lemon extract

Now the How To

Pudding

Mix flour, sugar, salt and baking powder together; add eggs, vanilla extract, milk, butter, apples, nuts and raisins. Mix well and divide into 9 greased individual moulds, cover with greased papers and steam steadily for three quarters of an hour. Turn out and serve.

Sauce

Boil sugar and water until syrup spins a thread, pour over beaten yolks of eggs, and stir quickly; add lemon extract. Set aside to cool, stirring occasionally. Just before serving, mix in whipped cream.

Mayochup?

Heinz is wondering whether the world has room for one more condiment. The company took to its Twitter account on Wednesday to post a poll on whether it should release Mayochup, a new condiment that combines its ketchup and mayonnaise in a single bottle. Heinz said in a tweet that it would only release Mayochup to stores if it attracts 500,000 "yes" votes in the Twitter poll. At that point, Mayochup, which could probably use a new name, would come to store shelves near you.

Congress Passes $5 Million for Delaware River Basin Restoration

On March 23rd, the Delaware River Basin Restoration Program (DRBRP) received $5 million in funding as part of the Fiscal Year 2018 Omnibus spending bill approved by Congress and signed by the President. The Coalition for the Delaware River Watershed worked with Congress on the authorization of the Delaware River Basin Conservation Act which was first introduced in 2010. The Conservation Act was authorized in December 2016 and created the DRBRP. Now money will finally begin flowing to local conservation projects throughout the region.

“The Delaware River is America’s founding water; for years it’s been neglected, and the fish and wildlife of the region have suffered. This authorization means that the Delaware will no longer be America’s forgotten waterbody,” said Collin O’Mara, National Wildlife Federation President and CEO. “The Delaware River Basin Conservation Act provides the tools to reverse declines in fish and wildlife, keep our water healthy, expand recreational access, and provide more opportunities for jobs, but just as importantly it shows that we can work together across the aisle to create a better future for wildlife and people.”

The Delaware River Basin is significant because it encompasses portions of Delaware, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, and supplies over 15 million people with clean, reliable drinking water, which is 5% of the U.S. population. The Delaware River is the only water source to provide drinking water for two major U.S. cities, Philadelphia and New York. The Delaware River Basin is also a major economic driver for the region, bringing in $25 billion annually in economic activity.

“The Coalition for the Delaware River Watershed would like to thank our champions in Congress for recognizing the importance of protecting the natural resources of the Delaware River Basin. The Delaware River Basin is a nationally significant region and deserving of the federal recognition this funding imparts,” stated Kelly Mooij, Vice President of Government Relations for New Jersey Audubon and Co-Chair of Coalition for the Delaware River Watershed. “Realizing funding for the Delaware River Basin Restoration Program has been a top priority for the Coalition for the Delaware River Watershed since its founding in 2012. We look forward to seeing great on-the-ground projects move forward throughout the region as a result of this small but mighty funding program!”

The DRBRP is a non-regulatory program administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and includes efforts to implement conservation, stewardship, and enhancement projects that conserve and restore fish and wildlife habitat, improve and maintain water quality, sustain and enhance water management, reduce flood damage, and improve recreational opportunities and public access in the Delaware River Basin.

Church is large, in charge, and hoping to be your new best friend. This five-year old cutie loves attention and will follow you wherever you go. He spends most of his day lounging around, and he's always ready for a snuggle session, making him the perfect love bug for a family. Church would prefer to be the only cat, but he's got plenty of love to give for the whole house. Church can be adopted at a fee you name through Sunday, April 15th. # Container Gardening Tips

1. Water, water, water! Soil dries out faster in pots than in the ground, so remember to water more frequently, and enough that water comes out of the drainage holes at the bottom of the pot. Better yet - try a self-watering container!
2. Use potting soil, which is designed to give container plants the texture and drainage they need.
3. Planting flowers in containers? Go for the WOW factor! Be sure to include different colors, textures, and heights, placing taller plants in the middle or back of the container, and trailing plants at the edge.
4. Any determinate tomato will grow in a container, and we especially recommend cherry tomatoes.
5. If sunlight is a problem, try placing your container on a wheeled pot trolley and move to follow the sun.
6. Start an indoor herb garden year-round for fresh herbs! Plus, herbs don't need much space - a 6" pot will work perfectly.
7. Try vertical gardening! Take advantage of trellises or walls to grow up, as well as out.
8. New to container gardening? Some of the easiest container varieties include herbs, salad greens, and tomatoes.
9. Just about anything can be used as a container - just be sure there's enough room for soil and plant roots, and that there's good drainage.
10. Did you know you can grow corn in a container? Try 'On Deck'! Plant 9 evenly-spaced seeds in a 24" container, and expect to harvest in about 2 months.
