Pan Seared PORK CHOPS

with CITRUS DRESSING

have ready 4 Servings

4 ½-inch-thick bone-in pork chops, patted dry with paper towels • Kosher salt, freshly ground pepper • 1 tsp sugar, divided • 2 tbsp plus ¼ cup olive oil • 1 lemon, zest finely grated (about 1 tsp), plus 2 tbsp fresh juice • 1 garlic clove, finely grated • 1 tbsp Dijon mustard • 1 tsp dried oregano • ¼ tsp ground cumin • ½ bunch cilantro leaves with tender stems, chopped fixn' part Season pork chops generously on one side with salt and pepper. Turn and season other side generously, then sprinkle evenly with ½ tsp. sugar. Heat 2 Tbsp. oil in a large skillet over medium-high. Carefully add chops sugared side down and cook, gently shaking skillet occasionally but not disturbing pork, until underside is caramelized and chops are deeply browned all over, about 5 minutes. Turn chops and reduce heat to low. Cook just until second side is firm, about 1 minute. Remove skillet from heat and let chops rest 10 minutes in skillet (the cooking will carry over and finish the chops while they rest). Meanwhile, whisk lemon zest and juice, garlic, mustard, oregano, cumin, and remaining ½ tsp. sugar in a medium bowl. Slowly whisk in remaining ¼ cup oil until emulsified. Fold in cilantro and season with salt and lots of pepper.

Spoon half of dressing onto a platter. Transfer chops to platter, then whisk any juices that have accumulated in skillet into remaining dressing. Spoon dressing over top of pork. Swipe pork through dressing as you eat.

This adult beverage was inspired by what we ate as a kids while watching Saturday morning cartoons.

To make the milk, the bar team bakes corn flakes in an oven for 15 minutes and after cooling combines with milk and lets it steep for 30 minutes. The liquid is passed through a fine-mesh strainer, and brown sugar and salt are whisked in. To make the TV Funhouse, they combine the cereal milk with dark rum and bourbon, plus honey and a sprinkling of cinnamon for the finishing touch.
