New police chief named

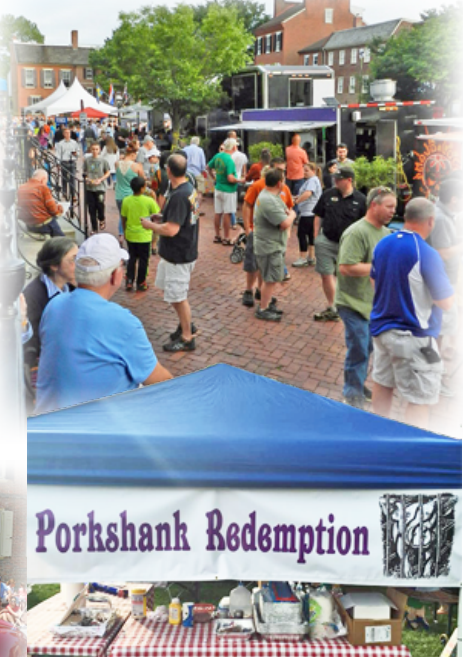

On Thursday, June 9th New Castle City Council unanimously voted to name Captain Jamie Rogers as police chief to replace retiring Chief Tjaden. Rogers is a New Castle native, a graduate of Wm. Penn High School and Delaware Tech. A member of the City Police Department since 1995 Jamie has had two promotions; one to Sergeant in 2008 and Captain last May. He has attended Delaware State Police - Cultural Diversity Delaware State Police - Criminal investigations classes and many law enforcement courses. Daniel Tjaden had been Chief since February of 2014.

Let the 240th Celebration begin

Thanks to the cooperation of Mother Nature, our Separation Day weekend really smiled. Friday evening's food, music and craft beer offering was top notch! The parade Saturday very entertaining, and the BBQ tasted as good as the breezes it spread. Fun and new games in Battery Park entertained families from all over Delaware! From Grand Marshall, kudos to Mayor Donald Reese, to all the participants in the parade... Thank You!

More Separation Day Weekend pictures next issue!

Delaware Literary Reading Series 2016

Friday, June 17th ~ 7 - 9 p.m.

New Castle Court House Museum
211 Delaware Street in Old New Castle

Please join eight Delaware writers at the New Castle Court House Museum for an evening of poetry, prose, and socializing in one of the First State's most cherished historic sites.

Readers include Ramona DeFelice Long, Maggie Rowe, Russell Reece, Robert Hambling Davis, Joseph Crossen, Shannon Connor Winward, Maria Masington, and JoAnn Balingit. The authors contributed to CURRENTS: Selected Poetry & Prose from the 2014 Cape Henlopen Retreat Writers, an award-winning collection of works by some of the state's finest poets and prose writers.

The New Castle Court House Museum was built in 1732 and served as the state's first court and capital building. It is the birthplace of the Delaware State. After the readings, visitors are invited to view exhibits on the Underground Railroad and period artwork and furniture, or take a stroll along the nearby Delaware River and dine at one of the historic town's fine restaurants.

BACON & POTATO FRITTATA

▶ 4 strips of bacon, cut into bite size pieces ▶ 2 medium potatoes, diced (avail in a can too) ▶ 1 to 2

tbsp. olive oil ▶ 4 large, fresh eggs ▶ 2 sprigs of parsley ▶ 1 tsp grated parmesan cheese ▶ salt and pepper

- ▶ Fry the bacon pieces in a non stick pan until cooked, but not too crispy. Place onto a paper towel lined plate and set aside.
 - ▶ Drain the bacon fat, and add some olive oil and fry the diced potatoes over medium high heat, until golden brown and thoroughly cooked, turning often.
 - ▶ Beat the eggs, parmesan, parsley, salt (about 1/4 tsp) and pepper.
 - ▶ When the potatoes are ready, sprinkle with a little salt, lower the burner to medium heat, then put the bacon back into the pan, dispersing evenly.
 - ▶ Now, add the beaten eggs.
 - ▶ With the corner of a spatula, cut into the frittata to allow the liquid egg to go through to the bottom of the pan, tipping the pan at times to also allow it to run to the edges.
- The goal is to try to cook the egg as much as possible before turning the frittata.

▶ When the egg is mostly cooked, if you are a "pro", you can flip the frittata in the pan!
Or you can place a large plate over the pan and turning it upside down, CAREFULLY, onto the plate, then slide it back into the frying pan. If you don't mind it not looking perfect when finished, you can also cut it into "slices" like a pizza, and turn one piece at a time.

Serve hot, on its own or with a salad, or other side dish.
You decide how you like it best, because with frittata...the options are endless!

Baltimore's Orange Crush

—a mix of OJ, orange vodka, triple sec and lemon-lime soda—may have started on Maryland's shores, but it's become a phenomenon throughout the state and beyond.

2 oz fresh squeezed OJ (or your fav from the store)
1½ oz* orange vodka • 1 tbsp triple sec •
Splash of lemon-lime sparkling water •
Garnish if you must

- ▶ Combine the OJ, vodka, and triple sec in a ice filled shaker.
- ▶ Cover and shake vigorously.
- ▶ Pour contents of shaker into a highball glass.
- ▶ Pour a splash of lemon-lime sparkling water on top and stir to combine. again... Garnish if you must

PRESTIGIOUS AWARD PRESENTED

NCHS Director Dan Citron looks on as Bob Fleck presents the Bamberger Historic Preservation award to Cindy Snyder

The State of Delaware was presented with the prestigious "Bamberger Historic Preservation Award" during the annual NCHS Garden Party June 1st. Cindy Snyder accepted the award on the State's behalf.

The NCHS established an annual Preservation Award to honor achievements in preserving public buildings, private residences, and commercial properties.

Preservation highlights included: a handicap accessible exterior door and restroom on the first-floor of The Arsenal as well as a freshly painted cupola and roof. The deteriorating garden wall of the New Castle Academy was reconstructed using salvaged bricks from the original wall. As part of ongoing pedestrian-walkway maintenance, three sections of the New Castle Green were improved in late fall of 2015. Completed ahead of schedule in mid-July 2015, capital improvements to the New Castle Court House Museum included replacement of the museum's deteriorated terra-cotta roofing system, cupola renovations, lightning-protection enhancements and weathervane gilding.

NCHS says "thank you, once again, for your commitment to excellence in historic preservation, and for your long-standing commitment to New Castle".

PIER update

The City of New Castle has been entrusted by the State of Delaware with $1,025,000, for the purpose of building a pier at the end of Delaware Street. In addition, the City has received funding for this project from the Delaware City Refinery in the amount of $10,000. The City also anticipates the receipt of $145,000 from FEMA under a federal program payment for the damage to the former pier, destroyed by Hurricane Sandy; for a total of $1,180,000.

With the funds provided by the State, the City has an obligation and commitment to the State to utilize these funds as judiciously as possible, and to construct the pier. Since the project was put to public bid with the experienced contracting firm of Dissen and Juhn as the lowest bidder, we have had numerous meetings with representatives of the contractor, City engineer Dave Athey, City Solicitor Dan Losco and engineers from Duffield and Associates, to determine a path forward that will allow us to maximize the dollars available to construct a functional pier, and also establish plans to enhance it to permit docking by ships such as the Kalmar Nyckel in the future.

With engineering design and testing costs already committed, the balance of the funds remaining for construction is $1,055,658. With that, the City has agreed to move forward with Dissen and Juhn and construct a pier that will be operational and open for use by the public at a total construction price of $1,005,444. When this first phase of construction is completed, residents and visitors will have full access to walk and utilize the pier. Additional funding will be required to accommodate docking by the Kalmar Nyckel, as originally planned.

To this end, the City has requested that the State provide $300,000 to assist with these additional costs, project management expenses, and cover any other potential costs such as remobilization. They are optimistic that these funds will be made available in the upcoming fiscal year, and completion of the entire pier will be done within the same time frame as the construction of "phase one."

Should that not be the case, the City will continue to pursue other funding options through State agencies, private donors and fundraisers to complete the project.
