Santa Maria tri-tip

You might need to ask your butcher or even a store meat manager to order in a tri-tip roast. Two pounds is a good size, but if you come across a larger one, by all means grab it. The trick is to carve the tri-tip against the grain, which can change cut. So before you rub it the raw meat and see which direction the long strands of muscle fiber are running on each part of the roast. After the roast has been cooked, and it has rested for 15 minutes or so, slice the roast in two at the place where the fibers change direction.

Carve each piece separately.

grain, directions in this and roast it, take a look at

It's summer so we aren't going near the oven!

- Trim silver skin. The meat may have a thick layer of fat, some of which can be sliced off, but keep a good amount to help baste meat.
- Sprinkle meat with rub and massage lightly all over. Cover and refrigerate at least an hour or as long as overnight. Remove from fridge an hour before cooking.
- Prepare charcoal grill or heat a gas grill to high. Place roast on grill and sear one side well, 6 to 8 minutes, checking for flare-ups. Turn the roast and sear other side for about the same time. Then lower gas to medium-high or move the meat to a cooler part of the charcoal grill.
- Turn meat again and cook another 8 to 10 minutes. Flip and cook again. A 2-pound roast will require about 20 to 25 minutes total cooking time. The roast is ready when an instant-read thermometer reaches 130° when inserted into the thickest part.
- Rest roast on a cutting board 15 minutes. Slice against the grain. The roast is shaped like a boomerang, so either cut it in half at the center of the angle, or slice against the grain on one side, turn the roast and slice against the grain on the other side.

spicy MARIA Gotta love a boozy brunch!

This is a fresh, muddled Bloody Mary but with a spicy tequila kick.

This Spicy Maria step in with serrano chiles, cucumber and lime juices and some cherry tomatoes. A healthy two-ounce dose of tequila rounds out this spicy sipper—a drink that's not for the faint of heart.

Soon to be your new Sunday morning fave.

3 cherry tomatoes, halved • 1 slice serrano chili

1 tbsp. Lime • 2 oz. tequila

1 oz. cucumber juice • Cucumber slices, for garnish

Combine the cherry tomatoes, serrano chili slice, and lime in the bottom of a cocktail shaker, and muddle thoroughly until everything is well combined. Add tequila, cucumber juice, and ice, stirring vigorously for 15 seconds. Pour into a glass, and enjoy!

First State NHP and the Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware partner with Delaware Craft Week 2015

First State National Historical Park (NHP) and the Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware are jointly participating in Delaware's inaugural American Craft Week.

American Craft Week October 2-11, 2015 is a nation-wide celebration of artisans and art organizations, centered on engaging communities and encouraging artistic collaboration.

This is the first year Delaware will join the national celebration, providing a great opportunity for First State NHP to engage the next generation of park stewards and artisans by collaborating with the Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware. First State NHP and the Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware will create Arts Afire projects to showcase during Craft Week that will celebrate the National Park Service Centennial. Included in the National Park Service (NPS) A Call to Action Initiative, Arts Afire encourages NPS employees, partner organizations, and park visitors to showcase the meaning of parks through dance, music, visual arts, writing and social media. In collaboration with the Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware's Pegasus ArtWorks, NPS will engage diverse audiences, especially young people, through the arts and the exploration of First State NHP sites as a means for self-expression and a way to reflect on ideas and experiences that matter to Delaware's youth.

George Krupanski, President/CEO for the Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware, comments on Pegasus ArtWorks saying, "The program focuses on teaching self-discipline and critical thinking skills through the learning of fine and performing arts. Through Pegasus ArtWorks, more and more of Delaware's youth are introduced to the arts, building confidence, developing communication and literacy skills, and creating lifelong creative thinkers." With the NPS Centennial on the horizon, the #FindYourPark campaign is underway and encourages everyone to share their park story. "Art is a relevant and powerful way to both engage youth and share their perspective with the public," commented Superintendent Ethan McKinley. "This collaborative partnership is a means for young artists to experience Delaware's national park, discover what inspires them, and share their art story."

For more information on how you can participate in the National Park Service Centennial, Joseph Gordon Levitt shares his best advice on how to make art inspired by the 400+ national parks found here in the U.S.

For more information about First State NHP programs, please contact Lorin Felter, Interpretation and Education Coordinator, lorin_felter@nps.gov. To learn more about Pegasus ArtWorks contact Logan Herring, Boys & Girls Clubs of Delaware STEAM Program Coordinator, LHerring@bgclubs.org.

To participate in Delaware's Craft Week please visit <http://americancraftweek.com/participants> or email Esther Lovlie, esther@pennsplace.net

COBBLE TASTING

The Cobble review team recently went to Lewinski's on Clinton in close by Delaware City. As suggested they tried the much talked about brussel sprouts. "They were flash fried and then mixed in an Asian-inspired ginger-lime vinaigrette. We concluded that the heat of a fryer may not be quite hot enough and a wok would perhaps be better, as they were left a tad oily, but the flavors were great and we gobbled them up. More, please!"
