International journalist tour City and National Monument

Touring journalist group pose with William Penn

First State National Monument hosted it's first-ever tour last Thursday. The State Department brought nine foreign journalists from Washington. The tour included sites both inside and out of the park. We started at Fort Christina State Park where I gave a talk about the first Swedish settlement. From there, we walked to Old Swedes Church where Max Dooley, an Old Swedes' Foundation volunteer, conducted a tour. After lunch at Jessop's Tavern, we walked down to the Fort Casimir site where Old Courthouse Museum interpreter Brian Cannon and I talked about the Dutch and the conflict for control of the Delaware Valley. We then went to the Court House where Site Supervisor Cindy Snyder gave a tour focused on Delaware in the 1700's.

The journalists were from China, Japan, Venezuela, Macedonia, India, Germany, and Russia.

This was a lot of fun, but it's not something we have the staff to do on a regular basis. I see this as a glimpse of how the National Monument can bring sites together in the future. - R. Smith FSNM

Happening at the Court House

CAPITALS AND CAPITOLS OF the UNITED STATES

Bob Vander Decker will discuss the many capital cities and capitol buildings of the Federal government during the American Revolution, Articles of Confederation, and early years of the Constitution. The capital city moved often in support of and in response to current events and activities of the British military.

He will review the first 50 years of where the Federal government met and set precedents that still affect citizens today.

Hi Ted,
Just noticed yesterday that the letter to the editor in Cobblestones of August 4 has resulted in, at least, a partial response. The flagpole is all spiffy. They didn't have a flag up but it was a bit after 5:00, so maybe it had already been lowered for the day.

Thanks to you and your contributor. - Irene
