EPA's website offers a brochure on how to reduce CFL mercury exposure.

Here's a summary of its tips:

BEFORE CLEANUP

- Have people and pets leave the room.
- Air out the room for 5-10 minutes by opening a window or door to the outdoor environment.
- Shut off the central forced air heating/air-conditioning (H&AC) system, if you have one.
- Collect materials needed to clean up broken bulbs.
- During cleanup
- Be thorough in collecting broken glass and visible powder.
- Place cleanup materials in a sealable container.

AFTER CLEANUP

- Promptly place all bulb debris and cleanup materials outdoors in a trash container or protected area until materials can be disposed of properly. Avoid leaving any bulb fragments or cleanup materials indoors.
- For several hours, continue to air out the room where the bulb was broken and leave the H&AC system shut off.

A bit of New Castle lives on in Portland, Maine

There is a restaurant in Portland, Maine that has its roots right here in New Castle. More accurately, it's hull berthed here in New Castle.

DiMillo's Restaurant & Lounge opened in 1982 and became the only floating restaurant on the upper east coast.

Nearly fifteen years ago, my wife and I were exploring the waterfront of Portland. With hours to kill before the return flight home, we discovered the 'floating restaurant' and decided one more lobster was in order.

Commissioned

"The New York" in 1941 on the back "About Our Restaurant" that the "boat" we were about to dine on was once the ferry boat "New York". She was a car ferry between New Castle, Delaware and Pennsville, New Jersey.

Opened as "DiMillo's Floating Restaurant", it's one of the largest such restaurants in the country. Her overall length is 206 feet with a beam of 65 feet. She weighs 701 tons and boasts a steam engine (but they promise not to fire it up while you're dining). DiMillo's seats over 600 guests in the First Deck Dining Room, Port Side Lounge, Second Deck Dining Rooms and three Outside Decks.

If you find yourself 'down Maine' near Portland, make a point of visiting a bit of home and a great menu at DiMillo's. 25 Long Wharf, Portland, ME 04101
