passing. Council President Linda Ratchford explained the City Charter calls for a Council appointment to fill the vacancy. She started the process with naming those interested. Two runner-up's from the April 11, 2015 election, Bill Blest, Valarie Leary followed by others who responded to a published notice: Carol Hickman, Jeff Davis and Sally Denton. Councilman John DiMondi asked why wasn't John Cochran included. Ratchford said he didn't respond. DiMondi said "he told me he was interested".

Ted Megginson suggested Council continue with as a 'short Council' seeing that the election is in April. It developed, motions were made to select each of the three runner-up's with none being seconded. A notice will be published (see page 2) for all interested citizens wishing to serve on City Council to sign up in the City building.

Councilperson Teal Petty reminded her fellow Council members there is a tradition that the family of the deceased is asked if a family member would be willing to serve the remaining term. This has been the case in New Castle.

In other matters: • David Baldini was re-appointed to the Planning Commission and to the Historic Area Commission. • 5th and Delaware Streets will become a 3-way intersection. • Handicapped parking status for 212 Baldu Avenue • Wheely's New Castle, a mobile snack-beverage-news service won approval with the limitation of two commercial stops per day. brown betty American's traditional dessert made from apples and sweetened crumbs. Similar to a cobbler or apple crisp, the fruit is baked and in this case the sweetened crumbs are in layers between the fruit. It is usually served vanilla ice cream at my house! This dish was first mentioned in print in 1864. Apple Brown Betty was one of the favorite desserts of Ronald and Nancy Reagan.

gonna need

10-12 baking apples, peeled, cored and sliced • 2 teaspoons cinnamon • 1 ¼ cups flour • ¾ cup brown sugar • ¼ lb butter

easy syrup

⅔ cup brown sugar • ¼ cup hot water • juice of ½ lemon

how grandma did it

Pre-heat oven to 350°

Arrange slices in the bottom of a lightly greased 12x9 pan.

Sprinkle with cinnamon.

Mix flour & brown sugar. Cut in butter until crumbly and set aside.

Syrup Combine ingredients and stir well.

Drizzle half of mixture over apples.

Cover with flour mix.

Pour remaining syrup over top. Bake at 350 for one hour.

spiked cider

1/4 gallon apple cider
1/2 cup dark rum
1/2 cup cinnamon schnapps
1 Granny Smith apple, peeled, cut into large chunks
1/2 lemon, juiced

Mix together the cider, rum, and schnapps in a large pitcher. Add the apples to a small bowl and toss them with the lemon juice. Thread the diced apples onto skewers. Pour the spiked cider into glasses filled with ice, then garnish with an apple or lemon skewer and enjoy.

USS Constitution

Old Ironsides

was launched 219 years ago this Friday in 1797.

The USS Constitution was among the first six frigates built for America's Navy after the Revolutionary War. To ensure the ship remains intact, the aging vessel was removed from the water to undergo major repairs at the Charlestown Navy Yard in Boston where visitors can still walk the deck. While in dry dock the hull of the legendary vessel is fully visible. A view of the ship's underside reveals a rare glimpse of the oxidized copper sheathing that has protected it from wood boring mollusks and saltwater for decades. The 3,400 sheets will be removed and replaced. The process will briefly offer visitors a glimpse of the wood below.

The USS Constitution earned the nickname, "Old Ironsides," when cannon balls bounced off her frame during victorious battles against the British in the War of 1812. Thousands of sailors have served on the ship and today the USS Constitution remains staffed with a Navy crew.

Ship restorer Anita Petricone is among dozens of people tasked with repairing the vessel.

"This ship is alive," said Petricone. "She's got all the energy accumulated from all her sailors, the battles, everything. She never lost a battle."

"I'm looking at how this has been put together over the years," said ship restorer John Hinckley, who sees the challenges and benefits of old construction meeting new. "Nothing is symmetrical. Everything is a little bit different."

Hinckley noted that repairs were done by hand in the past, but now, "We've got two cranes running to move this stuff around."

The restoration is expected to take more than two years and cost between $12 million and $15 million.

The U.S. Navy will pick up the tab.

In 1797, while observing the launch of USS United States, Joshua Humphreys wrote to the Secretary of War, that "...without straining or hogging more than one & a quarter inch, as you will see by the enclosed certificate, to my great and unspeakable satisfaction. The firmness of the ship was convincing proof of the utility of the diagonal riders in long ships, "Today the same may be said for Constitution. When undocked in September 1995, the hog was measured to be less than two inches. The effectiveness of the structural components is again shown with "convincing proof" and "unspeakable satisfaction". Given the satisfactory condition of the hull and the successful completion of the repairs, Constitution is being readied to sail in celebration of her bicentennial. On July 21, 1997, for the first time since 1881, Constitution will make passage under her own sail, sailing in Massachusetts Bay under topsails, jibs, and spanker -- her battle configuration. With a Navy crew and under specified weather conditions of winds less than 15 knots and seas less than two feet, Constitution will sail again as a salute to the Nation.

Joshua Humphreys is owed credit for the 200 year story of success of Constitution. It is his innovative design in building a structurally stiff hull that resolved the design criteria of fast speed under sail while carrying heavy armament. The history of this Nation rests on Constitution as a unique example of American technology. Constitution has become a lasting National symbol as a product of Humphreys' design.

The Joshua Humphreys mentioned is the g.g.g grandfather of Cobblestone member and lifelong friend of the Teditor, Josh Humphreys of New Bern, NC.

At the dedication of The Humphreys Building at the Washington Navy Yard last April, our friend Josh addressed Navy officials and guests saying "The Humphreys family is delighted to be here this morning, for the rededication of this beautiful building.

The family has been honored twice before. In July, 1919, DD-236 was launched and named USS Humphreys, and in 1987, USNS Joshua Humphreys was launched (and may still be in service today)".

"It is also an honor to be here with representatives of the crew of USS Constitution, the longest serving naval ship under commission, quite possibly in the world. My family and I have always been welcomed aboard old ironships whenever we have visited Boston, he said."
