NEW CASTLE

Oh! Christmas Tree

With many visitors expected this Christmas season for the Spirit of Christmas and Dickens events, or just to take in the colonial beauty, the lighted tree in Dewey Park is a shame. It should be a shining example, not an embarrassment. Cobblestones reached out to MSC's Pam Pantone and City Administrator Bill Barthel. Mr Barthel says "we are always trying to improve what we do; as Pam indicated, she and I have spoken and we will discuss hanging the lights w/ our respective crews. We are also planning on adding additional strings of lights."

Hasty Pudding

The love of pudding came with the first colonist in Virginia and was a favorite of the New England settlers. In the colonies, this dish was also known as Indian Pudding, Indian Mush, and Indian Meal because the colonists. In colonial days, Indian pudding was a simple cornmeal mush sweetened with molasses. In later years, it was dressed up with everything from sugar and eggs to raisins and spices.

gonna need

- 3 cups whole milk - 1 cup heavy cream (whipping) - 1/2 cup yellow cornmeal - 1/2 cup light brown sugar, lightly packed - 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 tsp salt - 2 tps ground cinnamon - 1/4 tsp ground nutmeg - 1/4 tsp ground cloves - 1/4 tsp ground ginger - 4 large eggs
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter, cut into 4 pieces

making hasty

Make oven happy at oven at 275°. Lightly grease a 6- or 8-cup soufflor baking dish with butter (you can use margarine, but DON'T use non-stick sprays). In a medium-sized saucepan over medium-low heat, scald the milk. While the milk is heating, pour the cream into a medium to large bowl, add the cornmeal, sugar, molasses, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, and ginger. Add this cream/corn meal/spice mixture to the scalded milk. Cook, whisking constantly, over medium-low heat until the pudding has thickened to the consistency of syrup (about 5 minutes). Remove from heat. In a bowl, beat eggs with a whisk. Temper the eggs by adding 1/2 cup of the hot cornmeal mixture to the eggs while whisking rapidly. Vigorously whisk the egg mixture into the remaining cornmeal mixture. Add butter, one piece at a time, stirring until melted. Pour mixture into the prepared souffldish, and place dish on a shallow baking pan on the center oven rack. Pour enough HOT water into the shallow baking dish to come 2/3 of the way up the outsides of the soufflor baking dish. Bake until pudding is set, a tester inserted close to (but not in) the center comes out clean, usually about 2 to 2 1/2 hours. Remove from oven and remove from the water bath and let cool slightly. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream or whipped cream or heavy cream.
