No Derby Party is complete without the Mint Julep which has been the traditional beverage of Churchill Downs and the Kentucky Derby for nearly a century. Each year, almost 120,000 Early Times Mint Juleps are served over the two-day period of the Kentucky Oaks and Kentucky Derby. This is a feat that requires over 10,000 bottles of Early Times Mint Julep Ready-to-Serve Cocktail, 1,000 pounds of freshly harvested mint and 60,000 pounds of ice.

Concert drive gains major support

When it was learned that summer concerts at Battery Park were in danger of disappearing, a few fans stepped up. And now they are close to keeping the half-century tradition alive.

Jim Travers is the effort's leader, and music lovers owe him a debt of gratitude. Mr. Travers comes by his interest naturally. His mother, Dottie, founded the series.

"I don't like to see things like this die," Mr. Travers told a News Journal reporter. "Once they are dead, they never come back."

He's probably right about that. His group, Community Concerts of New Castle, is trying to raise the money needed to book the concerts at the bandshell in Battery Park. Mr. Travers' said the group is more than halfway to its goal. Battery Park is an idea location for such events: a beautiful spot along the Delaware River on a hot summer night.

Traditions like this should be kept alive. And it is especially good to see residents taking the initiative by going out and raising the money instead of waiting for someone else to do it. Too many times community functions are allowed to wither when the organizers move on or the program hits some kind of bump. Rather than lament a get-together's passing, more residents should take steps to keep it alive and flourishing. Or, if the community doesn't have such a tradition, start one.

That's what Mr. Travers' mom did so long ago.

"I hope and I believe the community will support the program that's been there for 50 years," Mr. Travers said. We hope so too. - News Journal editorial 4/27/12

RIBEYERUB

Some think the coffee adds lushness, as it softens and mellows out strong spices, and makes a perfect rub for pork, lamb, poultry or, in this case, rib-eye steaks.

Chef's note: We also love a combination of oregano, thyme, marjoram, basic, dill and parsley with ginger. If the following mélange is too spicy for your taste, but you might want to amp it up, add some white pepper and paprika or, if you're a fearless guy, throw in a couple tsps of your favorite chili powder and your mouth will say wow! Try our rub ingredients first, however, and you may be pleasantly surprised!

This recipe makes 4 generous or 6 modest servings.

Espresso RUB yagottaget ↓

- ¼ cup finely ground espresso or micro-ground regular coffee; must be almost like a powder
- 2 tbsps Spanish paprika (Hungarian if you like your rub milder)
- 2 tbsps dark brown sugar
- 1 tbsp freshly ground black pepper
- 1 tbsp ground coriander
- 1 tbsp dried oregano
- 1 tbsp kosher salt
- 1 tbsp Coleman's dry mustard powder
- 2 tps ground ginger or 1 heaping tbsp freshly grated (fine) ginger root
- Sprinkles of chili powder to taste
- Safflower or sunflower oil for rubbing
- Salt and white pepper, to taste
- 2 boneless rib-eye steaks, about 2" thick (about 3 pounds altogether)

Nowmakeit ↓

In a medium sized bowl, combine all the spices with the espresso powder and mix thoroughly, crushing them to make an evenly textured rub. Preheat the oven to 425°F. and set aside a cooking sheet. Preheat a cast iron pan or griddle over high heat. If you don't have a cast iron pan or griddle, run to the store now, and get one. This old-fashioned pan works miracles for today's quick cooking! Using a pastry brush, brush each side of the steaks lightly with oil then season liberally with salt and pepper. Rub about 2 tbsps of the rub onto one side of each steak. Cook, rub side down, until golden brown, about 3 to 4 minutes. Turn the steak over and cook an additional 2 minutes. This not only gives a wonderful crust to the steak, it helps to seal in the juices in the meat. Transfer the steaks to a baking sheet and cook in the oven to medium rare doneness, about 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from the oven and allow to rest about 5 minutes, slice, and serve.

Cobblestones is growing!

Every Sunday morning, 360 plus "Cobbles" receive their weekly dose of New Castle's comings and goings and other good and interesting stuff! Cobblestones is my "fun" project, a pay back to the community. There is no charge to community organizations for their listings.

Space for commercial/business ads will require a donation of $50 to cover time and materials. The rate that covers four random insertions.

Ads should be a moderate size. A jpg or PDF works the best. Let me know early in the week an approx. size with a final copy

Thursday. If it's just a listing for "events", please send me copy as soon as possible.

Personally, I would like to thank everyone for your interest and participation in the growing Cobblestones family. Anything I can do to help, please let me know.

Rikki and the Stubbs Elementary School students scored big during Nora Lee's sidewalk sale on the 21st. Rikki reports, "The sidewalk sale went great! We had great weather, there was plenty of foot traffic, and the girls were very outgoing and excited. We sold about half of what we had, and we raised $200 for the chreeleading squad."

The painting is depicts the annual May Market as viewed through the back of the Historic Town Hall at the base of Delaware street in Old New Castle.

Can you help?

Have you ever walked down a street in Old New Castle and thought to yourself how lucky you are to live here? I know I have. And it is not just because our streets are so quaint, flowers on the front doorsteps of many of the old houses, secret gardens hidden and not so hidden behind each house, and the sense of pride that I get because my town is so beautiful. It is also because many of my friends live here. I chose New Castle because it is a real neighborhood. People socialize with one another and say hi to strangers when they pass on the streets. How rare and wonderful is that?

That same pride of belonging shows in our public areas. It is the reason people from all over the world come here to see our historic houses, gardens and streets. And you are a part of that, too. When you give of your time to Arasapha, it is not just to maintain the historic gardens, it also translates to higher property values for everyone, a sense belonging to something greater than yourself, a reason to call Old New Castle home.

Arasapha needs you now. May Market will be taking place on Friday, May 4th and Saturday, May 5th. While many are spending untold hours organizing our once-a-year fundraiser, we still need more help. And the good part is we only need two hours of your time, not that we would turn down a contribution of more, you understand. We need help staffing sales of plants, herbs, white elephants, books, raffle ticket and print sales.

We could also use a contribution of time on Thursday morning to help move white elephant items from their storage place to the Presbyterian Church or Thursday at about 1 PM to help organize the plants and herbs for sale. Many hands make light work, they say. Can you supply two hands for two hours on one of these days?
