Sixty-six years ago today, it was announced that Japan had surrendered unconditionally to the Allies, effectively ending World War II. Since then, both August 14 and August 15 have been known as "Victory over Japan Day," or simply "V-J Day." The term has also been used for September 2, 1945, when Japan's formal surrender took place aboard the U.S.S. Missouri, anchored in Tokyo Bay. Coming several months after the surrender of Nazi Germany, Japan's capitulation in the Pacific brought six years of hostilities to a final and highly anticipated close.

President Harry S. Truman announced news of Japan's surrender in a press conference at the White House: "This is the day we have been waiting for since Pearl Harbor. This is the day when Fascism finally dies, as we always knew it would." Jubilant Americans declared August 14 "Victory over Japan Day," or "V-J Day."

(May 8, 1945--when the Allies accepted Nazi Germany's official surrender--had previously been dubbed "Victory in Europe Day," or "V-E Day.")

Bruschetta with Hot Cherry Tomatoes

Ingredients

3 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
 3 to 4 cloves garlic, chopped
 2 pints cherry tomatoes
 1 tsp crushed red pepper flakes
 Salt
 A handful flat-leaf parsley, chopped
 A few basil leaves, torn
 1 loaf semolina bread, sliced

Directions

Heat about 2 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil in a medium skillet over medium heat. Stir in the garlic, saute for 2 minutes, then add the tomatoes and hot pepper flakes. Season with salt, to taste, and toss to coat in the oil. Cover the pan, raise heat a bit and cook until the tomatoes burst, about for 10 to 12 minutes. Remove the lid, squish any whole tomatoes with a wooden spoon and let the tomatoes thicken, about 1 minute. Stir in the parsley, adjust the seasoning and remove from the heat.

Heat the broiler and char the bread on both sides. Arrange the bread on a platter and top with the hot tomatoes. Garnish with torn basil leaves and drizzle with the remaining 1 tablespoon of extra-virgin olive oil before serving.

Beekeeper's Honey Cornbread

1 1/2 c. coarse ground yellow cornmeal
 3/4 c. all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon salt
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 2 eggs, beaten
 1 1/2 c. buttermilk
 3 tbsp unsalted butter, melted
 2 tbsp honey (for a sweeter cornbread, use 4 tbsp honey)

Preheat oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Grease a 12 x 8 in. baking pan with butter.

In a large mixing bowl, stir together the cornmeal, flour, salt, and baking powder.

In a separate bowl, mix the eggs and buttermilk together. Add the wet ingredients to the dry ingredients and stir until just combined (the mixture will remain slightly lumpy). Stir in the butter and honey.

Pour the batter into the prepared baking pan and bake for about 25-30 minutes, until golden brown on top and a toothpick, inserted in the center, comes out clean.

Allow the cornbread to cool slightly before serving. Well wrapped, this cornbread keeps for 1-2 days.
